

RespiraCleanse®

Cough Suppressant

Nature's own uniquely effective herbal cough drop formula. In cold and flu season, it does double duty, providing cough relief and clearing the respiratory airways!

For cough and cold sufferers:

- Who want a balanced liquid herbal tincture formula that is especially effective in relieving hard, dry, irritating coughs
- Who appreciate a specifically targeted formula whose synergy of properties make it an excellent all-around choice for every type of cough, both chronic and acute
- For those with difficult to expectorate mucus, making Respiracleanse® an excellent companion product to Respirafect®, our infection-fighting respiratory formula

Its Herbs and How They Work

- A formula led off by mullein, a herb with antiseptic properties and long valued as a cough remedy because of its balanced content of soothing mucilage and saponins
- Reinforced by horehound, another classic cough remedy that relaxes the smooth muscles of the bronchial passages, promoting mucus production and expectoration
- Further aided by plantain, an antibacterial, anti-inflammatory herb with significant cough-relieving qualities
- With red clover, a herb that relieves respiratory tract conditions, particularly those marked by dry, irritable, spasmodic cough
- Includes elecampane, an antibacterial herb specific to persistent, bronchial coughs, as it combines the relaxing effects of its main botanical constituents with the stimulatory properties of its essential oils
- A complement of marshmallow, a herb used for thousands of years for respiratory conditions on account of its rich mucous membrane relieving constituents, as well as anti-inflammatory and antiseptic compounds
- With lobelia, a stimulating expectorant with relaxant properties that give it a broad spectrum of effects on the respiratory system
- Capped off by ginger, used classically in herbalism as an expectorant and antitussive to relieve bronchitis as well as coughs and colds

RespiraCleanse® is non-GMO, organic/wildcrafted, gluten-free, and soy-free.

RespiraCleanse®

Cough Suppressant

Nature's own uniquely effective herbal cough drop formula. In cold and flu season, it does double duty, providing cough relief and clearing the respiratory airways!

The difference between Respirafect and RespiraCleanse. How do I know when to use one rather than the other?

In most instances, these two products are complementary and work together to achieve respiratory balance. There are, however, points of emphasis particular to each of them.

As you might gather from the name, Respirafect® is geared more to lung infections. Respirafect® combats the infection, offering soothing action that reduces inflammation and helps the lungs expel sticky, glutinous mucus. In the minority of cases, where infections are simply associated with loose, easily-expectorated mucus, Respirafect® can be used on its own.

More commonly, infections are accompanied by more harsh, dry and irritating coughs or with difficult to expectorate mucus, in which cases the ideal approach is to pursue a strategy that combines these two lung products. This being the case, we often recommend a regimen of treatment that involves taking these two products alternately—sometimes on the hour at the outset of a bout of respiratory illness.
